

Goregaon, Bombay

9th March 1968

My dear Kamla,

We have shifted to Bombay. The whole office came down by the Mail on Tuesday, files, typewriters and all. The railway has given me a small quarter in Goregaon, two rooms and a kitchen, and the window looks at a coconut tree.

The sea is very big, Kamla. Yesterday evening I walked from Dadar to the shore and stood there like a schoolboy. I thought of you and the children the whole time.

Give my love to Arun and kiss little Meera for me. Ask Amma to write. I will send the train fare on the first of the month, and by April you will all be here.

Yours always,

Mohan
